The US stock market is open Monday to Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time.Many stocks can also be bought and sold in extended-hours trading. Pre-market trading opens at 4:00 a.m. and after-hours trading closes at 8 p.m.Stock trading hours are usually noted in Eastern Time because that's the time zone of New York, where Wall Street is.In other US time zones, the stock market opens at 8:30 a.m. Central Time, 7:30 a.m. Mountain Time and 6:30 a.m. Pacific Time.Here's an overview of stock market opening hours in different US time zones:Opening HoursExtended HoursEastern Time (EST)9:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.04:00 a.m. - 8:00 p.m. Central Time (CST)8:30 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.03:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m. Mountain Time (MST)7:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.02:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. Pacific Time (PST)6:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.01:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Stock market holidays in 2022On stock market holidays, the main US stock exchanges (NYSE and Nasdaq) close for the entire day.These are all the planned stock market holidays in 2022:Martin Luther King, Jr. Day: January 17 (Monday)Presidents' Day: February 21 (Monday)Good Friday: April 15 (Friday)Memorial Day: May 30 (Monday)Juneteenth National Independence Day: June 20 (Monday - observed)*Independence Day: July 4 (Monday)Labor Day: September 5 (Monday)Thanksgiving Day: November 24 (Thursday)Christmas Day: December 26 (Monday - observed)*In addition, the market will close at 1:00 p.m. EST on Black Friday (November 25).These holidays are identical for both the NYSE and Nasdaq. However, bond markets may have different holidays and trading hours than stock exchanges.*Juneteenth and Christmas Day fall on Sundays, so they are observed on the following Monday.Worldwide stock market opening hoursStock markets outside the US have their own opening hours, in their own local times.All of them are open Monday through Friday, but stock exchanges outside the US can have completely different holidays.North AmericaUnited States: The main US stock exchanges (NYSE and Nasdaq) are open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time on Monday through Friday.Canada: The Toronto Stock Exchange is also open from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. local time, which is the same as Eastern Time.AsiaChina: The Shanghai Stock Exchange opens at 9:00 a.m. local time and closes at 3:00 p.m. It closes between 11:30 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. for lunch.Hong Kong: The Hong Kong Stock Exchange opens at 9:00 a.m. and closes at 4:00 p.m. It is closed for lunch between 12:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.Japan: The Tokyo Stock Exchange is open from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. but closed for lunch between 11:30 and 12:30 a.m. local time.India: The Bombay Stock Exchange is open between 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. local time. There is no lunch break.EuropeUnited Kingdom: The London Stock Exchange is open between 08:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. local time (GMT).Germany: The Frankfurt Stock Exchange (Börse) opens at 8:00 a.m. and closes at 8:00 p.m. local time.France: Euronext Paris opens at 9:00 a.m. and closes at 5:30 p.m. local time.Switzerland: The Swiss Exchange opens at 9:00 a.m. and closes at 5:30 p.m. local time.OthersAustralia: The Australian Securities Exchange opens at 10:00 a.m. and closes at 4:00 p.m. local time.Futures trading hoursTypes of securities called futures contracts can be traded almost around the clock Monday through Friday. For example, futures on the S&P500 Index (called E-mini S&P 500 futures) can be traded from 6:00 p.m. on Sunday to 5:00 p.m. on Friday.However, there is a break in E-mini futures trading between 4:15 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. each day.Other types of futures contracts may have different trading hours, such as commodity and currency futures.Option trading hoursMost options contracts on US stock exchanges can only be traded between 9:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. EST, the same as regular trading hours for stocks.CryptocurrenciesMost cryptocurrencies, including Bitcoin (BTC) and Ethereum (ETH) are traded around the clock, all year.The bottom lineKnowing when the market opens and closes is important to know when to place your trades and check your positions.If you submit an order outside of regular stock market hours, then the order may not get filled until the market opens.Some brokers allow you to trade during extended hours, but this is not recommended for beginners. That's because there is less liquidity at this time, and your order may not get filled at a good price.This page was last updated on January 1, 2022. Photo Courtesy: Maxim Hopman/Unsplash The days of digging deep into a company's financials to make smart investments are gone. Today, you can easily find real-time stock market data with just a few clicks of your mouse. Countless apps and websites offer instant individual stock prices and closing stock market prices. The world of trading stocks is now a vast minefield of fundamental and technical information. With so much data available, you may feel overwhelmed as an investor, regardless of your experience level.Here are some steps to take when you want to use real-time stock market prices to make smarter financial decisions.Finding Information on Financial WebsitesUnfortunately — or fortunately, depending on how much you enjoy research — a broad spectrum of finance publications exist online. Most provide real-time stock prices and charting capabilities at no cost. However, not all available functions are free. If you're a new investor, it's best to stick with free publications that are respected and well known in the finance world. MarketWatch, Bloomberg, CNBC, The Motley Fool and NASDAQ.com are a few reputable publications that offer instant stock quotes and other important information about trading stocks and investing.How To Track The Stock Market In Real TimeSo, you're ready to start investing, and you want access to real-time stock market prices. Most of the sites listed above are user-friendly and make it easy to locate market data. For example, you can easily find CNBC online, and the site shows stock market prices for the Dow Jones Industrial Average, NASDAQ, the S&P 500 and the Russell 2000. It also has a search quotes field at the top of the webpage that lets you look up individual stock prices after finding a company's ticker symbol. If you're not sure how to find a symbol, a simple search using the company's name with the terms "ticker symbol" should do the trick.Using Trading SitesToday, stock market trading sites dominate the investing world. What was once a "closed society" limited to America's ultra-wealthy is now open to anyone with an internet connection. Numerous stock market brokerage firms give users the option to execute trades online. In some cases, your trading isn't limited to just the American markets. You can execute trades for companies listed on the China stock market index or the Singapore stock market index. From TD Ameritrade to Charles Schwab to Fidelity Investments, various online trading powerhouses give you access to powerful research tools and trading capabilities.Accuracy of Real-Time Stock Market PricesOne of the undeniable truths about stock market prices is they fluctuate — and sometimes they fluctuate dramatically. One minute Apple's stock price is up 10 percent on a strong earnings report, and the next minute it's down 10 percent because the latest iPhone's battery doesn't charge very well. This is just the way stock markets work, and it's a real-world example of how quickly prices can change. You can expect price fluctuations, so it's best to look at how accurate the data is in financial publications.Several of the financial publications that offer free services don't provide real-time data. Instead, they delay quotes and other stock market prices by 15-20 minutes. In general, if you want instant quotes with up-to-the-second prices, it's going to cost you money. For example, most online brokerages require an initial deposit of $1,000 or more, depending on the type of trading and services you need.Average Brokerage CostsThere are two types of brokerage firms: discount firms and full-service firms. Discount brokerage companies don't offer investment advice, and you must conduct your own research. Aside from the initial deposit, you can expect to pay roughly $4 to $20 per trade, depending on how many shares you're buying or selling.Full-service firms provide you with education, investment advice and research. Some charge a transaction fee of $120 or more, plus a 1 to 1.5 percent annual fee. When you pay for premium services, you receive real-time stock market prices (not delayed quotes) and access to professional traders who offer advice based on your best interests. Full-service brokers work on commission, so it's in their best interests to make sure you earn profits on your investment portfolio. MORE FROM ASKMONEY.COM
